You will walk along the Gilpin Trail, the island's oldest named and best-marked trail. The terrain is mostly flat and easy to navigate, and we will walk at a relaxed pace. Many bird species live here, while manicou and crabs patrol the undergrowth. Hanging bats and burrowing armadillos also call Tobago home. Despite its small size, the island is a key destination for unique biodiversity.

The plants are just as spectacular, from massive bamboo groves to spiny palms and bright red scarlet heliconia blooms. Your guide will point out the natural healing properties of many plants and share other interesting facts.

Breathe in the fresh, pure air and feel yourself become one with nature.
